Lou Ann Stories

I had a friend call one day and ask if I would sponsor one of the finest people he knew for consideration to be nominated into a very exclusive and prestigious organization that is very difficult to get into and which I have belonged to for over 35 years or more. It would take three people from the organization to accept to be her sponsors and nominate her. Knowing my friend, I knew him and his wife and other friends of theirs to be of the finest character and integrity of anyone I have ever been privileged to know. So, naturally, I said yes, but I would like to speak to the young lady first and I did.

I found her to be as charming, well-mannered and well-spoken, as he said she was. I also thought at the time that she was an extraordinarily smart young lady as well as one with a sweetness and kindness in her voice. As I interviewed her, I became convinced without question that she would fit in and that I felt comfortable to ask some favors of my friends in the organization who know me well, to sponsor her, too.

Well, when I called my precious sisters in the organization, they did not hesitate to say yes. My heart melted with gratitude for trusting me so much to take a chance on her simply by my word and sponsor this nice young lady along with me especially since they had not met her.

Well, it turns out that she was chosen to be one of the new class of Provisionals and she was so excited because many applied and so few get chosen each year.

I got some beautiful and unexpected surprise flowers and a note from her that read, "Kindness is one of the greatest gifts you can bestow upon another. Thank you for giving me the opportunity to be grateful. I thank you for your part in my journey! With Much Gratitude, (then she signed her name)."

It was a great surprise, the flowers and all, however, the note really struck me as being more beautiful than the flowers. It was about kindness being the greatest gift one could bestow upon another. That was a WOW moment for me as I thought more and more about it. When people are kind to me, I am always so very, very grateful. So, it was really something to come to the realization that I had the ability within myself to give people one of the greatest gifts they would ever receive and it would cost nothing but a few moments of time here and there and kind words and helping people was pretty amazing.

Then when she said the part about "thank you for giving me the opportunity to be grateful" that also just hit me square in the eyes. Isn't it a good feeling to be grateful? Hmmm and here she was thanking me for giving her that opportunity. Another WOW moment. I thought about the many blessings I have and how many times I have felt grateful and thankful and it is a blessing to have those opportunities but here she was being grateful for the opportunity to be grateful. And she was thanking me for it. I was rather humbled by her words. Her words have just stuck with me and I have thought about them many times. I can think of few greater qualities in a person than to be kind and to be grateful.

So this April, look for opportunities to do a little extra, to try a little kindness, to give people the opportunities to be grateful for the gift of kindness that you all possess and can give.
